AUSTEREO RANKS ON BRW'S BEST PLACES TO WORK LIST

Austereo has ranked #24 on BRW's prestigious Best Places to Work list which is a definitive catalogue of the 50 best employers nationally.

Austereo is home of national Today and Triple M radio networks and the place where comedy duo Hamish & Andy finish up the work week in their underwear for 'Pants off Friday'.

With combined radio studios and corporate offices, the company balances hard work with play, offering professional development and mentoring in an appealing culture that rewards new ideas and results.

Austereo CEO, Guy Dobson said, "As a leading media company in Australia we're thrilled to be part of BRW's prestigious Best Places to Work list among 49 of our nation's best workplaces."

"We pride ourselves on creating a positive work environment that breeds innovation, creativity, and is somewhere people enjoy to work so it's inspiring to win this award.

"We're continually celebrating our leadership and people practices and it's nice to be externally recognised for what we consider to be a workplace conducive to cultivating ratings winning radio shows."

BRW's Best Places to Work award is based on research conducted by the Great Place to Work Institute in Australia and more than 16,000 employees from 160 companies were surveyed to compile the 2010 list.

AUSTEREO STAFF SAY:

"It's a great place to work. We experience things that the average person is not exposed to."

"Austereo empowers employees to take responsibility for their own work, and that helps me derive a great sense of fulfilment and satisfaction in my work."

"The culture here is amazing. Even when people leave, new people contribute to a great culture."

“We are a great team as a whole who understand and respect that none of us can do our job without every other department.”

“The opportunity to advance your career within the company is impressive.”
